PHILOSOPHY OF GOVERNANCE

Schreiner University pursues the ideal and the practice of shared, or collegial, governance. Under its articles of incorporation and corporate bylaws, and of applicable statutes of the State of Texas, the board of trustees retains final and full responsibility for the sound management of the institution and its assets. As a matter of practice, the governing board ordinarily confines its concerns to the acquisition and oversight of University fiscal and physical assets, the development and institution of policies as to management, and the approval of administrative recommendations as to budgets, academic and other programs, faculty appointments and promotions and tenure, and similar matters.

The board charges the administration to implement its duly adopted policies, to attend to the ongoing and responsible management of University fiscal affairs, property maintenance, enrollment management (with faculty cooperation), staff recruitment and development, through the office of the president to assume the initiative in institutional planning, the maintenance of an environment supportive of collegiality and of student learning, to provide the board with information that it needs to perform its duties, and to accomplish such other tasks as may from time to time be assigned to it. In brief, the administration is responsible for the sound day-to-day operation, and for leading in planning for Schreiner University.

The board lodges in the faculty responsibility for developing and offering programs of instruction, the recommendation of academic policies, the conduct of scholarly activities, and the performance of such service responsibilities as are customary for faculty members. Faculty proposals as to academic policies, programs, faculty appointments and promotions and tenure, proceed to the board of trustees for approval, subject to administrative review and recommendation. Where the administration does not concur with the faculty it will report both its views and those of the faculty to the board, and its nonconcurrence to the faculty, with the reasons therefor.

The committee will conduct an annual performance review of the president in January of each year. The evaluation will be based upon previously established areas for assessment. The evaluation will be presented in writing and discussed with the president in January of each year, and to record receipt of the evaluation it will be signed and dated by the president.

The committee is responsible for recommending annually to the board a compensation package for the president that is competitive relative to Schreiner University's peer institutions, recognizes performance, and allows the university to retain highly capable presidential leadership. The comparative data will be obtained from salary and benefit compensation surveys, and will provide data from nonprofits of similar mission focus, budget size, and total enrollment. The committee's recommendations will be submitted for review and action by the executive committee not later than its January meeting, with final action by the board in executive session in February.

Regarding other key employees, as defined in the IRS form 990, the president similarly will conduct annual performance reviews of each of these individuals, and will recommend annually to the committee compensation adjustments for these employees. His recommendations will also be based on comparative data obtained from salary and benefit compensation surveys, and will provide data from universities of similar mission focus, budget size, and total enrollment. The committee will review, and ratify or modify these recommendations.

Finally, the board will document how it reached its decisions, including data on which it relied, in minutes of the meeting during which the compensation was approved.

The committee shall be chaired by the chair of the board and members shall include the immediate past chair of the board (when still a member of the board), vice chair of the board, the secretary of the board, the chair of the finance committee, and, when the past chair is not a member of the board, one additional member selected by the chair.

Section 6.12. Ad Hoc Committees

Ad hoc committees may be appointed by the chair in his or her discretion or at the direction of the board to perform studies or investigation and reports to the board or executive committee. Unless otherwise provided by the board, the authority of such committees extends only to making studies and reports for the board and to making recommendations to the board or executive committee.

ARTICLE VII

Special Status Trustees

Section 7.1. Advisory Trustees

(a) Advisory trustees may be elected by the board of trustees at any meeting, will ordinarily serve for three years, and may be reelected without limit.

(b) Advisory trustees shall be persons who have a continuing interest in the university and who, by virtue of such factors as (i) relationship to the Presbyterian Church, (ii) ability and inclination of financial support, (iii) enhancement of student enrollment, (iv) active or potential employment of graduates, (v) expertise in higher education, (vi) other helpful life experience or motivation are deemed by the board to be capable of making a significant positive contribution to the board's deliberations and decisions. They may be former trustees or potential candidates to become trustees. They may choose to be designated as active or inactive, depending upon their ability and desire to attend board meetings or participate as committee members.

(c) Active advisory trustees will be invited to all meetings of the board, will have the privilege of the floor at board meetings, but will not have the right at such meetings to make or second motions or to vote. They may be appointed to standing or ad hoc committees and participate in committee meetings to the full extent of all committee members. All advisory trustees will be available to the board, its committees and officers, and the president to give advice concerning the policies and practices of the university, to participate in the task of relating the university to the public, and give help in recruiting and advancement efforts.

(d) The board may from time to time invite any or all advisory trustees to assume other specific responsibilities.

Section 7.2. Trustee Emeritus

A trustee emeritus may be elected by the board at any regular meeting. The trustee emeritus shall have served the University with special distinction and shall be accorded such designation for life. Trustees emeriti will be elected on nomination by the executive committee or from the floor. The trustee emeritus designation will be bestowed by the board of trustees and the University at a suitable public function of the University. Trustees emeriti will be invited to all meetings of the board, will have the privilege of the floor, but will not have the right to vote or second motions or the responsibility of the vote.

Section 7.3. Former Trustees

All those who have served as trustees of the institute, college or university remain a part of the larger college of trustees. Although they do not attend and participate in meetings, the university will continue to communicate with them regularly by a variety of means as appropriate to those who have served as members of the governing board of the institution.

ARTICLE VIII

Finances

It is the general responsibility of the board to see that the University is properly undergirded financially. The board shall from time to time review, affirm or amend the recommendations of the president concerning charges for tuition and fees, fines and other necessary and contingent charges in the University and in its several departments. No student shall be advanced in class standing or transferred to another institution or be eligible for a degree until he or she shall have settled in full all indebtedness to the University or until the president and the executive committee of the board are satisfied that the obligation will be settled.

ARTICLE IX

The meetings of the board shall be conducted in accordance with the parliamentary procedure prescribed in the manual known as "Robert's Rules of Order."

ARTICLE X

The Covenant will be established for a five-year period. During each period, the board and the administration shall expect and welcome a team of visitors appointed by the Council of the Synod of the Sun or its successor for the following purposes:

- a) to review with University officials the Covenant relationship;

b) to evaluate the actions of the University and the Synod to implement the Covenant; and,

c) to propose to the Synod and the board such changes in subsequent Covenants as are deemed advisable.

ARTICLE XI

Nondiscrimination

Schreiner University admits male and female students of any race, color, national or ethnic origin to all the rights, privileges, programs, and activities generally accorded or made available to students at the University. Schreiner University does not discriminate on the basis of age, sex, race, color, national or ethnic origin in administration of its educational policies, admission policies, scholarship and loan programs, athletic and other school administered programs. Schreiner University is, and will be, an equal opportunity employer and will not discriminate in employment on the basis of age, sex, race, color, national or ethnic origin.

ARTICLE XII

Employment of Relatives

Section 12.1. Policy

Schreiner University's policy is designed to permit the employment of relatives under such conditions as will prevent the existence or the reasonable perception of conflicts of interest, discrimination or favoritism. The policy is flexible, and it relies upon discretion and common sense for its implementation.

Section 12.2. Definitions

For the purposes of this article, the following words have the following meanings:

(a) "Relative" means a spouse, child, parent, brother, sister, grandparent, grandchild, aunt, uncle, first cousin, corresponding in-law, or step relationship. The term also includes any person living in the household of an employee in a relationship that lacks one or more elements of a legal marriage.

(b) "Employment" means and includes any and all remunerative positions of work for Schreiner, including, without limitation, all offices of the corporation, all faculty and staff positions, hourly paid work and contracts for sale or for work.

(c) "Nepotism" means granting favored treatment or indulging in discrimination in favor of a relative in employment.

Section 12.3. Nepotism Prohibited

Nepotism in the hiring, contracting, supervision, or any form of dealing with employees is prohibited.

Section 12.4. Permitted Relationships and Conduct

Subject to the prohibition of Section 3, the following employment relationships are permitted:

(a) Relatives of trustees or advisory trustees may be employed in any capacity, subject to a majority vote of approval by the board. The related trustee shall abstain from discussion and voting on the question of such employment. Approval of the board is not required for the engagement of students in the ordinary course of work-study programs.

(b) Relatives of the president may be employed by the provost, any vice president or dean, subject to a majority vote of approval by the board, or between meetings of the board, the executive committee. The president shall not participate in the hiring, promotion, fixing of compensation, job assignment or discipline of such relative. All such actions shall be taken by the person having immediate supervision of the relative, subject to normal reporting through normal reporting channels (excluding the president.)

(c) Relatives of other officers may be employed in positions not subject to supervision by the related officer.

(d) Relatives of other employees may be employed to work in the same Schreiner University facility, provided that no direct reporting or supervisory relationship exists between them. In general, no employee is to be permitted to work in the chain of command of a relative, in such manner that one relative's responsibilities, salary, or career progress could be influenced by the other relative.

Section 12.5. Exceptions

If and when the best interests of Schreiner may be served by making an exception to the conditions set out in Section 12.4, the board of trustees may approve such exceptions, by majority vote. Otherwise, exceptions to the rules set out herein are not permitted.

ARTICLE XIII

Conflicts of Interest

Section 13.1. Purpose

Members of the board of trustees of Schreiner University ("Schreiner" herein) are fiduciaries, and therefore owe a duty of loyalty to the institution. It is recognized that board members have other interests, in business and other types of endeavors, which from time to time may conflict with their duty to Schreiner. This conflict of interest policy is designed to provide guidelines which will assist trustees to avoid breaches of their duty to protect the interest of Schreiner when conflicts arise.

Section 13.2. Conflicts Defined

A conflict arises when the exercise of a trustee's rights or powers presents an opportunity for personal gain, or when a trustee's personal interests could or would influence the trustee's action. A potential conflict is always present when the trustee owns any financial interest in a privately held company that seeks to do business or is doing business with Schreiner. On the other hand, an interest as a security holder in a corporation whose securities are listed on any national or regional securities exchange or traded over the counter by members of the National Association of Securities Dealers is unlikely to present a material conflict of interest. In a situation where the trustee has a doubt whether a conflict of interest exists, the trustee should disclose the facts to the board and request it to decide the question.

Section 13.3. Disclosure and Recusal

When it becomes apparent to a trustee that a matter pending before the board gives rise to a conflict of interest, the trustee shall immediately disclose his conflicting interest to the board. He shall thereafter take no part in the deliberations on the matter, and shall refrain from voting thereon. In order to avoid the improper disclosure to the conflicted trustee of sensitive information, he shall, on the request of the chair of the board or a majority vote of the board, absent himself from the board room while the matter is under deliberation.

Section 13.4. Other Matters

A trustee must not use information acquired in the performance of his or her duties as a member of the board to obtain a personal financial benefit. A trustee must not attempt to influence a decision or action by any officer, employee, or agent of Schreiner in order to obtain a personal financial or other benefit.

Section 13.5. Certification

Every member of the board of trustees shall execute and deliver to the office of the president annually, on a form to be provided by Schreiner, a certification that he or she has read the conflict of interests policy, understands it, to the best of his knowledge and belief has complied with it fully in the past, and will in the future comply fully with it.

ARTICLE XIV

Amendments and Adoption

These bylaws were adopted by the board of trustees at its meeting on October 20, 2000. These bylaws shall supersede all other bylaws, all other bylaws being hereby repealed. These bylaws may be amended or repealed at a regular or special meeting by two-thirds vote of the trustees in attendance at such meeting, provided notice of the proposed amendment or repeal has been submitted in writing to each board member thirty (30) days prior to the meeting.
