Congressman Lamar Smith took time from his busy schedule to meet with SU students, Norman Becker and Kelan Robinson, who are taking political science with a focus on the role of Congress. Becker and Robinson are conducting their term project on the issue of immigration as it makes its way through Congress. Congressman Smith, as the former Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, took time to explain some of the intricacies of the immigration issue. He also explained to the students how critical a firm understanding of the workings of the House of Representatives is to enacting legislation. Congressman Smith is a strong supporter of Schreiner University and we appreciate his contributions to our mission of providing a quality liberal arts education to our students.