

Husband and Wife Duo

Ready to Lead Schreiner Golf Programs

Ron and Anna Macosko know golf. Anna Macosko, Schreiner's new women's golf coach, retired last summer after an extremely successful nine-year career with the Ladies Professional Golf Association (LPGA.) Ron Macosko, her husband, and Schreiner's current athletic director, has taken over as head coach of the men's golf team. He brings his experience as an NCAA Division II golf coach to the job. They both share an enthusiasm and love for Schreiner.

"With the depth and quality of young players in this state, we both believe that there is no limit to what Schreiner golf can be," Anna Macosko said.

Ron, Anna and their five-year-old son, Ben, arrived in Kerrville in August of 2005, when Ron accepted the athletic director position, the first full-time A.D. in the history of Mountaineer athletics. Elevating all intercollegiate sports programs at Schreiner University is his primary objective, but